Excerpt: .came; but such was the power of the Master s voice, that, without questioning, they arose, and left all, and followed Him. For many years, from that day, they seem to have been rarely separated from each other, or from Him. Together, with James, they were with Him in the house of Jairus, when the only daughter was raised from death to life by the power of that same resistless voice which had called them from their nets to become fishers of men. Again, they were with Him and James, on the mountain of transfiguration, when for a moment, to nerve them for coming pain, His glory was revealed; together in the night of gloom which followed so swiftly on; together in Gethsemane, sleeping for sorrow, whilst their Master, withdrawn only a stone s cast from them, agonised for them--yea, even for us, in prayer....
