Excerpt: . paradox that something which ex hypotheti is but a series of feelings, can be aware of itself as a series. The truth is. that we are here face to face with that final Inexplicability, at which, as Sir W. Hamilton observes, we inevitably arrive when we reach ultimate facts; and in general, one mode of stating it only appears more incomprehensible than another, because the whole of human language is accommodated to the one. and is so incongruous with the other that it cannot be expressed in any terms which do not deny its truth. The real stumbling-block is perhaps not in any theory of the fact, but in the fact itself. The true incomprehensibility perhaps is, that something which has teased, or is not yet in existence, can still be, in a manner, present; that a series of feelings, the infinitely greater...
