Saxon jurisprudence had established an ample gradation of judicatures, which diverged in different ramifications from the kings court into every hamlet in the kingdom: but of the persons invested with judicial authority very few were Chron. Sax. 98. Leg. Sax. 8--46. CHAP, qualified for so important an office. Almost all ----were ignorant: many were despotic. The powerful refused to acquiesce in their decisions; and the defenceless complained of their oppression. Both had frequent recourse to the equity of Alfred, who listened as cheerfully to the complaints of the lowest as of the highest among his subjects. Every appeal was heard by him with the most patient attention: in cases of importance he revised the proceedings at his leisure; and the inferior magistrates trembled at the impartiality, and severity of their sovereign. If their fault proceeded from ignorance or inadvertence, they were reprimanded or removed...
